SANITORIUM DESTROYED BY FIRE

Big Institution To Have Been Opened at Crab Orchard This Week, Burns to Ground

Epsom Hill Sanatorium, known for several years as the Spiller Sanatorium, where treatment was given on Battle Creek methods, burned to the ground last Saturday morning about three o'clock. The building, which was about a mile and a half north of Crab Orchard, off the Lancaster pike was very large and commodious, as is shown by the cut above. It was practically new, having been built a few years ago at a cost said to have been close to $12,000. It was the property of W. E. Laur, of Saginaw, Michigan, who purchased the sanatorium a year or so ago and had planned to open it this week on a large and pretentious scale for treatment of nervous and other related troubles. Dr. W. J. Edmiston, of Crab Orchard, was consulting physician and a Mr. Wood of Michigan, was to be active manager.

The place had been extensively advertised and a good patronage was expected as it offered a splendid retreat for those needing treatment and the fame of Crab Orchard water is world-wide.

Just how the blaze originated is a mystery. A colored caretaker is said to have been on the property at the time. Practically everything was destroyed as there was no means of obtaining fire protection.

Two Stanford insurance agencies had policies on the building. The firm of Bromley & Bromley carried $3,500 on the building and had $500 on the furniture and Jesse D. Wear had $1,500 on the building.

MOUNTAIN MULES TOO SMALL

M. J. Farris, Jr., Unable to Buy Any for War, at London.

Maurice J. Farris, Jr., of Danville, passed through Stanford late last week en route to London where he went in an effort to buy some mules for the English army. He was unable to secure any, however, on account of the lightness of the mountain hybrid. The specifications of the contractors who are buying for foreign governments calls for animals which weighed at least 1,000 pounds. Out of about 200 mules which were inspected and weighed by Mr. Farris at London last Saturday, only about six came up to the required weight, and the owners of these would consider no price short of about $200 each for them, which is so much in excess of the amount which the buyers can afford to pay for mules, that they could not be considered. Mr. Farris says that he found a fine lot of light, wiry mules on hand but was unable to handle them.

Mr. Farris and B. G. Fox, of Danville, are commissioned to buy mules in this part of Kentucky for C. A. Wright, of Columbia, Tenn., who is an agent for Guyton & Herrington, a firm that handles stock all over the country and has the sole contract to buy mules and horses in America for the English and French Governments. During the past few months, Messrs. Farris and Fox have bought something like $20,000 worth of mules in this part of the country and have put the much ready money in circulation among the farmers.

Died of Very Rare Disease

Albert and Harry Scott, of the Goshen section of this county, were called to Lexington Saturday and attended the funeral Sunday of their cousin, Shannon Cunningham, a well known young man of that city, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cunningham. The Lexington Leader says he died of a very rare disease known to the medical profession as leukomia, which produces a radical change in the white corpuscles of the blood. The boy was just 16 years of age, and a high school student. He was ill only two weeks. He was the youngest of five children.

Recognized Advantages

You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens the secretions which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.

Awarded Medal of Honor.

Lieutenant Caswell Sautley was made the recipient of a medal of honor at a banquet in New York City, given him last week by the Navy Department. The token was in appreciation of gallant and efficient service in the navy in general, and his work at Vera Cruz in particular. It was presented by Admiral Peary in a speech replete with good things. Lieutenant Sautley's words of acceptance were most appropriate and well chosen and rounds of applause met his every sentence. It will be remembered that he made the first flight over Vera Cruz. His friends here are delighted at the honors Mr. Sautley is receiving and the success he is making of his life work.

Gooch—Dunn.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 27th day of January, Miss Mary Elizabeth Gooch and Benjamin Armstrong Dunn were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in the Goshen section of this county. In the presence of only the two immediate families, the Rev. F. M. Tindler, of Lancaster, performed the ceremony in a very appropriate manner. The bride, who is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gooch, wore a suit of blue with hat and gloves to match. She is a very charming young lady and has for the past few years been an enthusiastic teacher in the schools of this county. The groom, who is a son of the late W. G. Dunn, is one of Garrard county's most energetic young farmers and a splendid young man. Both the bride and groom have a host of relatives and friends who wish them much joy and happiness throughout their wedded life.

REVIVAL SERVICES BEGIN AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. J. A. Trostle Is Being Heard By Large Congregations and Preaches Right from the Shoulder

A Real Revivalist is preaching to large crowds each afternoon and night at the Presbyterian church during the revival services which began there Sunday. Although he has lived in Stanford for something over a year, few local people outside of his own denomination had ever heard the Rev. J. A. Trostle, evangelist for the Transylvania Presbyterian church in a local pulpit. Those who are hearing him in the meeting now in progress, are beginning to realize what they have missed. Rev. Trostle is peculiarly original in his style of delivery and argument for the Master's Cause, and drives home his points in a way which is bound to have a direct appeal to all who hear him. Some one suggested that he has much of the style of Billy Sunday, but be that as it may, there is no gainsaying the fact that he is a powerful pleader with a vim and fire that holds the attention of his congregations from start to finish. He often presents the old, old story in a new light, but in doing so, it will be found to have some peculiar application that might be difficult of discernment otherwise.

The Sunday services at the Presbyterian Church which were the opening services of the revival were well attended. The Baptist, Christian and the Methodist churches which had heartily co-operated in the preparatory work joined forces at the Presbyterian church in the evening. The result was the assembling of a splendid audience that almost filled all the seats. Not less than 250 people it is estimated were present. The congregations which gathered on Monday were also notably large. A religious service on a week day does not usually number much over 50 people. At the night service there was a large attendance.

The sermons delivered by Rev. J. A. Trostle were very earnest and powerful appeals calculated to awaken the conscience of the indifferent and rouse the sleepy Christian to action.

On Sunday at 11 o'clock Mr. Trostle's theme was Christian Consecration, based on the words of Jesus to Peter, "Lovest Thou Me?" At night the subject was, "The One Thing Needful," the well known words of Jesus to Martha in the tale of household care. Whether or not the preacher intended it, the two discourses were complementary; the one to the other in a striking way. In the first, the great thought, that only the supreme devotion of the soul of man will satisfy Jesus. In the second, the no less important truth that only a Christ, who loves and helps and saves can satisfy man.

The Monday sermons which were also much appreciated were on the subject of Prayer. At the afternoon service at three o'clock the preacher dwelt on the need of prayer and the necessity for a keen sense of the need of God for ourselves and others which alone can make prayer acceptable to God and powerful in accomplishing results. At the night service the hindrances of prayer were discussed and the way of meeting them clearly pointed out. Mr. Trostle made particular mention of the unforgiving attitude as being one of the most common as well as one of the most fatal hindrances to the prayer life.

The services will be continued through the week, the afternoon meeting beginning at three, night meeting at seven o'clock. Everybody is welcome.

Enlarging Local Ice Plant.

Extensive preparations for improvements in the local ice plant are being made by the Stanford Water, Light and Ice Company, in order to increase the capacity of the plant for the coming summer. One hundred and ninety-six new flues were received Saturday to go in the plant, and other improvements are being made which will enable the local concern to operate at full capacity all summer if there is sufficient demand to need it.

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks "Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. MISS FLORENCE CARTER DEAD

Bright Young Woman Breathes Last After a Long Illness

Death is at all times sad, but it is peculiarly so when it comes to one whose whole life is before her and whose surroundings are happy and who had so much to live for, as did Miss Florence Carter, who passed quietly from life unto death at nine o'clock Monday night. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carter, of Stanford, and was the idol of their home. Several years ago she showed signs of failing health and in the hope of warding off the serious trouble, her parents took her west, where she was thought to be so much improved that they brought her home, hoping that she would soon be well and strong again. Last summer her trouble again showed itself and she gradually grew weaker and weaker until it was necessary for her to take her bed which she seldom left.

There was never a more patient sufferer nor one more hopeful. Believing that she would be well before the flowers of Springtime came, she made many plans for the future and in each remembered her friends, never forgetting those whom she loved. Miss Carter was an exceedingly bright, pretty girl and very popular with all who had the pleasure of knowing her well. She was 26 years of age and had for a long time been a consistent member of the Christian church. Here was a beautiful Christian life and one well worthy of emulation. Her parents, brother and friends are almost heart-broken over their loss, but in their grief they have the consolation of knowing that their loss is her eternal gain.

The funeral will be preached at the home on Logan avenue at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning by her pastor, Rev. D. M. Walker, after which the burial will take place in Buffalo Springs cemetery.

C. G. Wine Dead.

G. G. Wine, well known in Stanford, where he lived many years died at Cloverport last week. Mr. Wine was in the monument business here and placed many of the handsome monuments that are in Buffalo cemetery. His wife is buried here, but we are informed that the body will be exhumed and placed by his side in the Cloverport city of the dead.

Little Jimmy McCarley Dead

Little Jimmy McCarley, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCarley, died at his home near Rowland and was buried in the Lancaster cemetery. The little fellow had been a sufferer from a hip trouble for five years, and bore his suffering uncomplainingly. He is survived by his parents and three brothers and sisters. The parents have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

C. F. Likens, of Jackson, has been here with Local Agent Dan Milburn, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, for several days, looking over the local territory. He says that he is greatly pleased with the work that Mr. Milburn has been doing for his company in this part of the state.

Pleas Dye has been in bad shape with an affection resembling brain fever at the home of his father, John Dye in the Maywood section. The young man was severely hurt while living in Oklahoma a few months ago. He was struck on the head by a piece of machinery, while at work, and has been in a bad condition since. It is understood that a piece of the bone is pressing upon the brain.

Granville E. Lutes, who recently left Lincoln for Florida, writes back that he is well pleased with the Sunshine State. He is located at Brantford and says that he found "everything nice and warm" and "has been out in the yard in his shirt sleeves. He says "most everybody is hauling in garden stuff. Things are awful high. Eggs are 37 cents a dozen; meal and flour are about a dollar and a half a bushel." Mr. Lutes says he hopes his friends back in Kentucky will write to him.

TOBACCO BRINGS 50 CENTS PER POUND

George Marsie, of Garrard County Breaks All Records in Kentucky for This Season When a Basket of His Tobacco Brings 50c a Pound at the People's Tobacco Warehouse.

MARSIE'S ENTIRE CROP AVERAGES THE HIGH PRICE OF $22.50 PER HUNDRED

Wildest Enthusiasm on the Breaks of the People's Tobacco Warehouse Monday Morning Since Two Years Ago.

Numerous Big Averages Made. Bidding Enthusiastic, Quality Good and Happiness Reigns Supreme Among Growers of the Weed.

COL. IKE DUNN KNOWS HOW TO HANDLE

YOUR TOBACCO TO THE BEST ADVANTAGE

All records in Kentucky for the season for high priced tobacco were broken at the People's Tobacco Warehouse on Perryville street, Monday morning when a basket consigned by George Marsie, of Garrard county, brought 50 cents a pound. Marsie's entire crop averaged $22.52 per hundred, which is also a record breaker. Many high averages were made, and if there has ever been any doubt about the People's House being the best market in Kentucky it was dispelled Monday morning. The wildest enthusiasm prevailed, the enthusiastic scenes being the first of the character since two years ago when the weed took a sudden upward jump.

Capt. C. C. Lucas, the gifted and silver-tongued auctioneer, of North Carolina, was in the best of shape, and held the throng spellbound by his magic efforts when the record breaking prices were being realized. The People's House is so thoroughly lighted and so constructed that the tobacco is shown to the best selling advantage, and Col. Dunn and his experienced men know how to place the weed to the best advantage. These, with other exceptional advantages, are largely responsible for the satisfactory prices. To date Danville has proven to be the third largest tobacco market in the State, and the best in securing high prices. Bidding at the People's House was spirited, and all baskets were eagerly sought by the buyers. Every big tobacco buying concern in the United States and several foreign concerns were represented.

Didn't See His Shadow.

His honor, the ground hog, did not see his shadow today, "praise the Lord," as good old Brother Barnes used to say. Old Sol showed his face about 30 seconds this morning between 8 and 9, but of course the little varmint hadn't gotten out of his hole at that early hour.

Card of Thanks

We desire to thank from the depths of grateful hearts those who so kindly came to us in our trouble and recent bereavement. During our mother's illness, our good friends and neighbors were untiring in their efforts to make her last days as comfortable and happy as possible and in her death they did all that it was possible to help us bear our irreparable loss. Hoping to some day partly repay them for the good deeds done her and us, we are, with hearts full of gratitude, Very truly A. T. and J. R. Nunnally.
